She lay by the window all summer
Waiting silently for her lover
She said, "I've touched the stars"
And she had the scars to prove it
What she didn't realize
Was with reluctance in his eyes, she'd lose it

It's gonna be another hot summer
Stripping the love from one another
Until the leaves float down
With a slowly embrace

Lying in her crumpled bed
Her lips dripping red
It's gonna be another long summer
Stripping the love from one another
Cutting the love from one another
Killing the love from one another
One another
One another
One another

One another
