The night I find myself in, is breeding a deadly fog
It's razorsharp tentacles I feel piercing my defenceless brain

No human ideas can ever contain
This massive exposure of suffer and pain
The fear and hysteria of a brave warrior slain
Yet serene accepting the fate that awaits

When death is appealing and life is far away
Memories decline and convictions fade
The essence of being deep inside awakes
For above all we're human no chance to escape

Those hungry for bloodshed and eternal life - they will die!
Those hunting ideals one cannot realize - watch them cry!
Those searching the fame only legends can claim - they won't find!
Those surrendering themselves to their immortal gods
- they are denied!

Behold the dismay when these fools realize
The void that's behind their senseless sacrifices
