It's like I've been through all that I can take Every mistake that I could make but it's all becoming clear as day by now
I've broken every heart that I could break
Every excuse that I could fake
But I know I'm going up but nowhere now

I can't imagine how
It came to make sense to me how
I found the someone now
Who found the best in me

And all I thought I could be
Was not much more than you see
Now the torn, and tattered, bruised, and battered me
In such a life that I lived
She's few and so far between
The night I met her made it better
Made a better me

Made a better me

It's like a class left of but empty space
Every lament that she could face
But it's nothing more than she can handle now
I never quite sure how my family ties
Severed and torn apart with lies
We come together but this weather's storming now

I can't imagine how
It came to make sense to me how
I found the someone now
Who found the best in me

And all I thought I could be
Was not much more than you see
Now the torn, and tattered, bruised, and battered me
In such a life that I lived
She's few and so far between
The night I met her made it better
Made a better me

God gave a thousand second chances to a child like me
Sometimes it takes a thousand tries
She's got a piece of passes understanding in her heart
And for the first time she has long for on the start

Now I can't imagine how
It came to make sense to me how
I found the someone now
Who found the best in me

And all I thought I could be
Was not much more than you see
Now the torn, and tattered, bruised, and battered me
In such a life that I lived
She's few and so far between
The night I met her made it better
Made a better me

And all I thought I could be
Was not much more than you see
Now the torn, and tattered, bruised, and battered me
In such a life that I lived
She's few and so far between
The night I met her made it better
Made a better me
