The night descends – and stars awake to find you standing here
The sky looks down - sees the tears that fill your eyes
Your spirit sighs as silence fills the darkness
The world is still, still as your life

But in this stillness gentle spirits hear your heart cry
You struggle with the prayer you knew just yesterday
You've lost your way, the words are gone, forgotten
But someone speaks for you, And someone says:

Let the angels sing your highest praise
Let their wings surround you all your days
Stand tall and proud
Don't fear the dark
And know how glorious you are

Your empty hands – shield a weary soul, a weary life
When there is nothing more to give nor left to say
If you are brave then you will hear them whisper
They'll take your hand, They'll guide your way

Let the angels sing your highest praise
Let their wings surround you all your days
Stand tall and proud
Don't fear the dark
And know how glorious you are

No - This life will not surrender
No - These dreams will not bow down
Their light will show
That you are not alone

So let the angels sing your highest praise
Let their wings surround you all your days
Stand tall and proud
Don't fear the dark
And know how glorious you are

Let the angels sing your highest praise
Let their wings surround you all your days
Stand tall and proud

Don't fear the dark
And know how glorious you are

Stand tall and proud
Don't fear the dark
