And when the world you're facing
Is no longer kind
And when the dreams you're chasing
Have left you behind

Faith holds on by a thread and hope becomes lost in the fray
Keep these words in your heart – just one more day:

He will find you there
When the world is blue
In His arms you'll stay
He will comfort you
He will light your way
If you're lost and scared
When you've run away
He will find you there

And when the cross you carry
Is far too much, too much to bear
And when the life you bury
Is mourned in despair Oh oh oh oh

All is not lost and gone – Come what will, come what may
Keep this truth in your heart – just one more day:

He will find you there
When the world is blue
In His arms you'll stay
He will comfort you
He will light your way
If you're lost and scared
When you've run away
He will find you there

And if the madness leaves you lonely
And if the silence leaves you torn
Just reach out – for One who seeks love only
Find peace – safe from the dark storm

He will find you there

When the world is blue
In His arms you'll stay
He will comfort you
He will light your way
If you're lost and scared
When you've run away
He will find you there

He will find you there
When the world is blue
In His arms you'll stay
He will comfort you
He will light your way
When you've run away
He will find you there

He will find you there
He will find you there
