When the night is long, when your spirit can't be strong
When your soul's too tossed and turned to wage a fight
When the dark is cold, as the prophecy foretold
We will search, we'll be waitin' for the light

But the sun will rise, We'll see glory in the skies
The Great Mountains will shout for what they know
And we'll clap our hands at the waters of the Lamb
At the river we will welcome him home

Yes the sun will rise, We'll see glory in the skies
The Great Mountains will shout for what they know
And we'll take our stand, where the water meets the sand
At the river we will welcome him home

So just believe - Believe that you will see
Just believe - the sun will set you free
All you need is found in morning's splendor
Lift up your hands and - Sing it with me

Remember Daniel
Thrown in the dark lions' den
And remember how he would pray
And recall the sun when his victory was won
He walked into the bright light of the day

So just believe - Believe that you will see
Just believe - the sun will set you free
All you need is found in morning's splendor
Lift up your voices - Sing it with me

The sun will rise, We'll see glory in the skies
The Great Mountains will shout for what they know
And we'll clap our hands at the waters of the Lamb
At the river we will welcome him home

The sun will rise, We'll see glory in the skies
The Great Mountains will shout for what they know
And we'll take our stand, where the water meets the sand

At the river we will welcome him home

Yes the sun will rise, We'll see glory in the skies

The Great Mountains will shout for what they know

And we'll clap our hands at the waters of the Lamb

At the river we will welcome him home

And we'll clap our hands at the waters of the Lamb

At the river we will welcome him home
