Questioning your life when there's no reason
Bodies that mistake the same
And living with the will that you can't know when
So what do we do in the end

Embrace the heartache

We're burning down the bridges with no likeness
Screams that just moved off the same
And telling all the ones that you can't torment
So what do we do in the end

Dedicating life when there's no absence
How can we reveal the pain
In knowing that our lives are never ending
So how do we steal in the end

Embrace the heartache
