Awakened just to scream
And knowing the world is not turning the life that you gave to me
So picture what we've seen
When everyone tells you you're faking
And never again you will

Pull harder for the ones that you carry
Dig deeper for the ones that bury you

We're working to the end
The things that you've chosen to name us unlike real mends for your face
So give us just one day
To prove that the end is not counting the life that were making

Pull harder for the ones that you carry
