this is where we should stop and just pretend that we are empty hollow like this space between where this is just a dream or my imagination playing tricks on me this is where we could stop and maybe then we wouldnt have to feel this force thats pulling us apart see you and i we change the odds you and i we are the story told we look for all those places that no one wants to go and run just mouth the words you dont even have to say it come on come on you know i cant just let it go you have me right where i wanted you and im right where you were where i never wanted to be what difference does it make if you scream when you cry?
it hurts the same you swear youre alone but someone always feels sorry well im sorry but im sorry just isnt enough stretch the truth until it hurts mix your words up a little more i dont want to hear it conversation is overrated just ask your first impression that was so quick to kiss a stranger can you fake it?
you dont even have to say it just mouth the words until your smokers breath makes you blush i just want to see you embarrassed as pathetic as it seems ive been waiting on a maybe so desperately so sorry if i cant leave whats in the past there so sorry if i got caught up in the past when everything you cant remember is what you want to forget i wish i had this sarcastic smile i could keep to myself while i drowned in how i felt
