You've been far away from me another land across the sea and all this time my hearts been breaking just waiting around and aching for a letter or a telegram telling me how sweet i am you swear your heart wont do you wrong untill you come back home ill wear your colors my dear untill your standing right here next to the one who adores you whos heart is beating for you like a lighthouse guides a ship back home safely from the sea

ill wear your colors untill you come back home to me im hoping you return the glow im just making sure you know no matter how, no matter what you come back to me again you realize this love is strong as it has been all along for miles and miles cant come between this kind of love you see

like a lighthouse guides a ship back home safely from
the sea
ill wear your colors untill you come back home to me
