Now desolation comes as relentless
And what sowed sovereign is jaded by corruption
In your tribulation suffering and despair
I will be your hate, I swear

I worship the reverence embedded beneath the flesh
Twilight of tyrants continues everlasting

Within ourselves we are commuted and soilborn in will
All these abundant killings, still there is blood to be spilled
Forever we shall witness
The march of evil men

It remains imperial, integrated endlessly
Through structures of death, merciless.
Incarnated in the form of a subject

Now death comes as a merciless reality
A rude awakening of hate. I swear

Walking like the living dead in the cities of glass

So when we long for the venom black
Our needs prolonged in the filth of the underworld
In the malevolence of our master
Greed so vile conceived to dominate

A reverence embedded beneath the flesh

Within flames we are commuted and born again in hell
All these abundant killings, all this blood is spilled
Forever we shall witness
The march of evil men

I worship the reverence embedded beneath the flesh
Twilight of tyrants continues everlasting

It remains imperial, integrated endlessly
Through structures of death, merciless.
Incarnated in the form of a subject
