My travels through lands of peril and fear
I feel the end of my worries is near
And now with the time, I gaze towards the sky
To think of the way that my life has passed by

The mysteries of life and reality
Have started to form and consume all of me
I live through the night with every bright star
And realize the answers might lie somewhere far

This moment won't last forever
I hope it will stay in my thoughts and my heart
To look at the heavens and think we're alone
The mystery lives on, for no one knows...

These stars so bright and far away
What I'm feeling it's hard for me to say
All I know is until my final day
I will search for the truth of the mystic star
