In sight of close calls, bring that plaster off the wall
Claustrophobic area, waking up to nothing
Remember one name, catch the corner of the page
Close the book and never look back again

Crawl out from the walls, break your fall
Redesign your shadows
Underneath it all we stay calm and overprotective
Last night I was up again till three watching TV

And using both hands, draw a breath as best you can Catch the ring before it slips out of reach
Remember anything, red wine split to shards
Cut the corners off the project, let me sleep

Crawl out from the walls, break your fall
Redesign your shadows
Underneath it all we stay calm and overprotective
Last night I was up again till three watching TV

Last night I was up again till three watching TV
