All these lies
That we face
Freedom lost
Laid to waste
Feelings strained
Lost in time
All we fear will soon be realized

They know
Where you go
They refuse
To let go
All these seasons
Tell a lullaby
A tale of demons
Standing in the light

Light fades into darkness
I feel that we're already lost
Can you separate the evil from the good inside
Cause they'll protest against you even having the right

Tears for all the useless
One voice for all the voiceless
Tears for those who survive

Dreams fade along with all your will
You see the light, but it's just beyond your grasp
They will cut you down
They will steal and let you drown
The point is to get you six feet underground

Tears for all the useless
One voice for all the voiceless
Tears for those who survive

Tears for those who accept it
There's no voice for those who claim it
Tears for those who survive

Will you explain to all the others
Will you give in to their lies

Explain away the massive loss of life
This is the battle of our life

Will you run to find some shelter
Hide from the demons that they made

Or will you be the one who's hiding behind your loaded gun
Or will you all run away

Tears for all the useless
One voice for all the voiceless
Tears for those who survive

Tears for those who accept it
There's no voice for those who claim it
Tears for those who survive
