Why would you listen?

Cause nothing I say makes any sense
Why should I go on?

It all seems to fall at your defence.

Cause it don't mean anything, like you don't need anyone.

You're stuck in a pattern that goes on & on again, the same.

I tried to make you see that I don't mean to be offensive, anymore than I need to be offended, but you're not listening!

Why would you listen?

Apologies crumbles then they die.

Why should I go on?

Cause everything's fading as I try to tell you time &
time again, but you're just talking', never stoppin', pausing, waiting for anyone.

Soon your motor mouth will run on empty, my ears are bleedin', my head is aching, you never shut up, you never listen to anyone.
What I say, won't matter.
