We took a trip up to wolf mountain and the wishes that we had,
Pennies from a fountain, and flowers that we picked,
were turning white We talked to trees but they only whisper so you have to listen close,
The brothers and the sisters and they tell you how it feels, to be old

And she said I, she said I, I'm alright
And she said I, she said I, I'm at a loss for words
tonight

You walked me down to the train station and you kissed me on the mouth
And I took a small vacation but we both knew, I wasn't coming home
I made friends with some black widows and they wrapped me in the web Had me answer riddles, they said,
"Do you know how it feels to lose someone you love?"

And she said I, she said I, I'm alright
And she said I, she said I, I'm at a loss for words
tonight

We took a trip up to wolf mountain

And she said I, she said I, I'm alright
And she said I, she said I, I'm at a loss for words
tonight
I'm at a loss for words tonight
