Passion Pit
"Cry Like a Ghost"

Out on my own where I found you alone
You were caught up in somebody else's mess
And yes, I drank all those drinks on my own
My life's become some blurry little quest
And the clock kept ticking slowly
And you leaned over and asked me
If I even had a clue where I was
Well I lied down on your wood floors
And my brain and body took course
And the night ended as though it never was
It all began to feel the same
I wanna know where they keep the rain
Sylvia
Right back where you came from
You're a pendulum
Heartbroken and numb, but
Sylvia
Noone's gonna tell you when enough's enough
Enough is enough
Sick to the bone on the steps to my home
The moon shined through the drapery of leaves
To hurt, to ignore everyone of my own
But you love just to feel some made-up breeze
But as my body crumbles
You walked as I just stumbled
We spoke only of things made in my head
You never once controlled me
Where all the others told me
That if I kept on going I'd be dead
It's not just you who felt the pain
Now tell me where they keep the rain
Sylvia
Right back where you came from
You're a pendulum
Heartbroken and numb, but
Sylvia
No one's gonna tell you when enough's enough
Enough's always too tough
See what I've done now, I don't understand
She says I screamed and that I raised my hand, but I never meant to, wasn't even there
I never meant to, I would never dare

Sylvia
Right back where you came from
You're a pendulum
Heartbroken and numb, but
Sylvia
No one's gonna tell you when enough's enough
Enough's always too tough
Sylvia
Right back where you came from
You're a pendulum
Heartbroken and numb, but
Sylvia
No one's gonna tell you when enough's enough
Enough is eno
