I look around me
And see the Valkyries coming to me
While the flames burn my body
And the horizon turns different and illuminated

I feel a real power taking me over
It's coming from the north beyond the lights
From the frozen dominion they call me
For me to take my place beside them forever.

And now to Asgard hall I'm going.

Where well live through all eternity.

I belong to this land no more,
I don't belong to the inferior side
Now my home is above the clouds
Fighting together with the true warriors.

There are my brothers of war
With their chalice raised to the wind
Honoring my after death arrival
On the table of Valhalla's brave warriors.
