Dawn of another day
Will someone remember what might happen today
Lost is my hope
For my eyes to meet yours again now

Life passes by even without you
But everything will someday reach an end

While you, where are you then?
You are living your life, while I am leaving mine

My life is passing by even without you
But now I fear it's to late for us to have regrets

Life isn't it strange
Well I did all that I could to make it worthwhile

Life passed by even without you
Strange how it all looks different from here
