You're so pathological I know all you say are lies
You're in disguise as A girl that I thought I knew
Now your nothing but the girl I wish I never knew

Well I was blind to all the things you did to me
Now your darkness covers farther than the eye can see
Well I can see your true face through the masks you wear
And I have seen more than any man can bare

My eyes go white at the thought of you
I'll know I'm dead when your finally out of my head
One day you'll find that you should've changed
Until then you'll have to deal with your fame

Well I was blind to all the things you did to me
Now your darkness covers farther than the eye can see
Well I can see your true face through the masks you wear
And I have seen more than any man can bare

When I can't breathe it's like my lungs can sense when you're near me
Why did I wake up from this trance you put me in Only to find out that you have been dancing with him

All along!
All along!

When I can't breathe
It's like my lungs can sense when your near me
Why did I wake up from this trance
Why did I wake up from this
Why did I wake up all along

Well I was blind to all the things you did to me
Now your darkness covers farther than the eye can see
Well I can see your true face through the masks you wear
And I have seen more than any man can bare
