

Pastor Troy "Crazy"

Visit "Crazy" on MotoLyrics.com

You've got your home of the brave
And I've got my land of the free
You conform to what society says
And I conform to me

Looking for light in the corners
Getting caught in the spider web
You look at me as if I'm giving a performance
When I'm just feeding my head

And you know that I'm doing all right
And I won't explain myself to you just to avoid a fight
How I'm living ain't correct
But for me it's just right

I'm not completely insane
I'm maybe just a little bit crazy
There's no one to blame, got no shame 'bout my game
Don't want nobody to save me

I've got a pair of ruby slippers
That I don't wear much anymore
And if I had the nerve, I'd click my heels and return
To the wonderland I knew before

I'm waiting on a slow boat to China
Want to sail away to the sun
I've been searching for myself
And I know I'm gonna find her if I break away from everyone

So the way that I act may not fit in Just because I've got a mind of my own
Doesn't mean it's a sin
I don't ask you to give up, don't expect me to give in

I'm not completely insane
I'm maybe just a little bit crazy
There's no one to blame, got no shame 'bout my game
Don't want nobody to save me

And I say it again

I'm just a little bit crazy
There's no one to blame, got no shame 'bout my game
Don't want nobody to save me

Some like to live for the moment
Taking life into their own hands every day
And if they don't get killed, they get so high off the thrill
They could float to heaven anyway

And others want to save for tomorrow
Thinking money is security
Well, I understand the need but I don't get the greed
And they all seem pretty crazy to me

You can tell by the expression I wear
Though I seem a little strange to you, I don't really care
I got the freedom to be
And there are others like me everywhere

I'm not completely insane
I'm maybe just a little bit crazy
There's no one to blame, got no shame 'bout my game
Don't want nobody to save me

I say it again, I'm just a little bit crazy
There's no one to blame, got no shame 'bout my game
Don't want nobody to save me, nobody to save me
I'm a little bit cra-aah, nobody to save me, nobody to save me

Visit Pastor Troy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.