She fell from the middle of nowhere
I fell another slave to her kiss
I was lying
I was trying to pretend
I was made for this.

She's been working up a history
Of waking up right next to me
She's deceiving
I'm believing that we've got this chemistry

She's been waiting for the moment
She could set the sun on fire
The moon ignites as we get higher
By candle light our hips get tighter
We can dance this night away

We can get it
Don't you sweat, girl
You know it's just the fire
That burns my heart
As we get higher
And so it starts
And we can live inside this dream forever

Hotel, now I'm back in the nightmare
Decked out
I was back in the mix
I was beaming
She was cheating
I'm believing I was made for this

Girl, lose your bed
Lose your head
Use your body instead now

'Cause you could never know
You could never go
You could never
You could never know now

She's been waiting for the moment
She could set the sun on fire
