I got my pictures back today and the expression on your face was all you had to say to clue me in to what's going on I can't believe i said i loved you for so long So now I finally see where i was mistaken from starring at these pictures that we had taken I always said a photograph was worth a thousand words and as for you and me I'm not sure i cant take this anymore I'm proud to say that i have crawled out from the dark just in time to watch this whole thing to fall apart A love we had, a love so sad our love is gone
I'm not ashamed to admit that i was wrong Your parting first won't fill the void I'm feeling double crossed, sick, tired annoyed by everything you've done that you said you meant all the time, energy, and money spent all those heart felt kisses I had wasted all the memories that you had pasted in my heart that makes up my mindset I can forgive, but i won't forget
