take some time to look around you.
take some time to know yourself.

you say i'm at the top of your list that's where i'll stay if you persist pretend that you don't know what's going on.
there's a thin line between love and hate and i'll respect the walls that you create between the world and your friends and the people left around you.

and i won't ask you to work for free but i insist you tell the truth to me i shouldn't have to pay for your mistakes.
give you 2 to 1 that you'll do it again give you 5 to 1 that you've done it since then and it's not so hard to understand.

so hold onto your friends
cause you know that's all you've got in the end and you can't run away without a team to back you.
don't burn your bridges down
don't bite the hand that feeds you let's give credit, where credit is due.

take some time to look around you.
take some time to know yourself.
we built this city on rock and roll
two brothers in the world with a common goal
we took this town, lets take the world now.

i got your letter in the mail no return address, now tell me how to feel play the role of the concerned one.

so hold onto your friends
cause you know that's all you've got in the end
and you can't run away without a team to back you.
don't burn your bridges down
don't bite the hand that feeds you
let's give credit, where credit is due.

and i'll slow this down like i know you hate it and i know your busy, but i'll just wait til i can take this song and scream it in your face. my emotions get the best of me so i'll write it all down in a melody and i'll sing it myself to get the point accross. so put me on a list with the disappointed that list is getting long and you know i know i'm not the only one.

give you 2 to 1 that you'll do it again
give you 5 to 1 that you've done it since then
and it's not so hard to understand.
we built this city on rock and roll
two brothers in the world with a common goal
we took this town, lets take the world now.
