I saw you slip away, outside of my grasp, I didn't know why.

You took me by surprise, in finding your way of saying goodbye.

When did you forget me? Did I do anything to ever hurt you?

Spent my whole lifetime waiting for you

And when the stars come out tonight, I'm dreaming about the love that we had

I guess this wasn't meant to be: our last farewell

You took away my pride, I'll never forget, this time last year.

And since you've been away, I've spent so many nights, thinking what did I do wrong.

I hope you've been listening, to the words I have to say. Since you've been missing, I've come a long, long way.

And when the stars come out tonight, I'm dreaming about the love that we had

I guess this wasn't meant to be: our last farewell

And when the stars spell out your name, I'm dreaming that you are feeling the same.

I guess this wasn't meant to be: our last farewell.
