Driving down those memories that are caught up in my mind.

Someday I will find a way to put my thoughts behind.

I find comfort by the songs in which I speak.

As long as I have words, I don't need anything.

I don't need to feel your touch anymore.

When I needed someone you left me in the cold.

And if you think that I'm too weak now you're gone.

I've found the strength to carry on, with the meaning of the song.

The way I feel right now these words cannot describe.

20 years I've tried, tried to open up my eyes.

Here I stand so tall tonight, no one above me.

I think I've found a paradise,

The only way I can survive.
