

Beth Jeans Houghton

"No Yellow Brick Road"

Visit "No Yellow Brick Road" on MotoLyrics.com

Put on your walking shoes and leave this town behind It's time you grew some wings and learned how to fly It's a crazy world we're living in and there are no guarantees
And I'll tell you something that was said to me

There is no yellow brick road no matter how far you get from home
Dreams are worth chasing, but baby don't you know
No matter where you're running, no matter where you go
There is no yellow brick road

I guess I always knew this day would come Like a child learns to walk I knew someday you'd run You can't pack this in your suitcase, you can't hold it in your hand
Just take this piece of wisdom and do the best you can

There is no yellow brick road no matter how far you get
from home
Dreams are worth chasing, but baby don't you know
No matter where you're running, no matter where you
go
There is no yellow brick road

Some roads lead to happiness and some are just dead ends
Life ain't always what it seems you've gotta trust what you beleive in

There is no yellow brick road no matter how far you get
from home
Dreams are worth chasing, but baby don't you know
No matter where you're running, no matter where you
go
There is no yellow brick road
There is no yellow brick road

