When the morning comes
Won't you show me just a slight affection?
We don't need to run
In the mirror you had no reflection

But no one's gonna love you
The way that I love you
Will you be here when the morning comes?

When the morning comes

Raise the covers and shut the curtains
We don't need the sun
In your arms I know, yes I am certain

That no one's gonna love you
The way that I love you
Will you be here when the morning comes?
