its so wonderful what a can smile can hide if the teeth shine right, and it's nice and wide its so magical what you can keep inside and if you bury it deep no-one can a find a thing, no well, come on now open wide, open up now don't you think it's time to look back at that boy on his way to school such a heavy heart, such a heavy jewel, i mean something that one day he'll sell now that no-one shows, no-one tells a thing, no come on now, open wide, open up now don't you think it's time now, after all of these years you are at last opening was it worth all that war just to win so caught up in the speed of the days in your sin don't forget how the story begins, no, don't forget now now, i'm seeing old lovers and enemies returning their keys so full of need all trying to see that jewel you keep what makes it shine, what makes it mine i don't care, no

just come on now, open wide, open up now there's so much love for what you'll find oh what will you find now after all these years you are at last opening was it worth all that war just to win well, if it wasn't , can you take me back to where it begins

come on take me back, to where it begins
come on take me back, to where it begins come on open wide and let some light in, in, in, in, in let us in
