Do you like to say the words you hide?
And do you like to trade up for a ride?
Do you trust the thoughts inside your head?
And are you scared to loose what you arranged?

What have I done ever and anon
Stopped running the risk to fail once more
All that I need is a new world better than ours

With each passing day the moment has come
The waiting is over and life must go on
I check my breath for cold and hold on...

Do you think you differed right from wrong?
And are you satisfied with all you've done?
Are you pleased with everything the way it is?
Are you scared of looking back at all?

You couldn't read the silence
And I couldn't play my part

If you never go ahead you'll keep on looking back
You don't move, and I'm still and silent.

Don't you like to move ahead and run?
And aren't you sad to see what we have done?
Was it worth the price we paid all these lies?
Are you proud of all these bitter tears?

What have I done ever and anon
Stop running the risk to fail once more
All that I need is a new world better than ours

Reached for a star and shut down anew
Too tired of starting all over again
Everything's better than this world we've throwed away

With each passing day the moment has come
The waiting is over and life must go on
I check my breath for cold and hold on...
