I'm better off without her holding me down
Driving me crazy when she's not around
Better off without pacing back and forth
Taste of ocean water leaves me wanting more
And if salt is what she craves why am I so bitter
She's so sweet it rots my teeth
Every time I kiss her
And I'm better off in 50 ways
Why do I still miss her
Misty eye'd and tossed about
Thinking about things I'm better off without
Thinking about things I'm better off without

Guess I'm better off without all she was about
Her mood swings so violently
It's tough to stand my ground
So tough to stand around pacing back and forth
Lonely is awake alone at 4 in the morning
While she's off to better things
Better off without me
I would only hold her down until she'd stop fighting
My skin is underneath her nails since she came unbound
Guess it's too late to turn around
Thinking about things I'm better off without
Thinking about things I'm better off without
Thinking about things I'm better off without
