"Autumn"

The noblest season of the year widens in front of my eyes
Thousands of colors reflect from a deep and perfectly calm pond Behind is our dream house. Surrounded with briar branches
The scent of autumn fills my nose.
The ground is covered with maple leaves

Far away from hurries: Far away from confusion
We live in our castle: Castle in the air
In the pool of lovers: We bathe in the nature
I wish this all could: Last forever

The midday sun is in the sky. We? re waking up from a sweet cradle
The time doesn? t matter. Just you and me and this moment
The first snowflake of autumn floats behind a frosty window
That is the first move of the freezing winter

The noblest season of the year widens in front of my
eyes
Thousands of shades reflect from everywhere I turn my face
The falls at its best right now. It doesn? t last too long
The scent of autumn fills my nose.
The ground is covered with maple twigs
