I caught myself again, trapped in time
I've been through you before, You come as no surprise
Still there's something new, and you're askin me why
I would give anything to you if you held out your hand
I would give anything to you
Nothing I can say in a song can do justice to you Nothing I can do in my life to prove myself true Oh, please understand that I would Give anything to you if you held out your hand
I would give anything to you, don't you understand?
There's nothing I can say about the one I love
The feeling is insane, the words are not enough.
I can't believe it's true, 'cuz I remember when there were times I thought I'd never see your face again
But I can feel the connection from the message that you send.
