Kathleen

by Patty Larkin

Oh Kathleen, you were the golden girl

Carried your halo in your pocket

Keeping the kitchen clean, Kathleen

Oh Kathleen, they dressed us both the same then

But we were like night and day then

Least, I always thought that way, Kathleen

Kathleen, sure of the light inside you

I followed close behind you

Down to the water line, Kathleen

Hearts are solid ground

When the water's rising

I looked up and you reached down

To where I was hiding

Kathleen

Hearts are solid ground

When the water's rising

I looked up and you reached down

To where I was hiding

Kathleen

Oh Kathleen, those were the childhood days

They read like a passion play

Saved in the final scene, Kathleen

Kathleen, you are a golden girl

Carry your world inside your pocket

The world of remembered dreams Kathleen

Ahhh Ahhh Ahhh Ahhh
