Lately

by Patty Larkin

Lately I keep you close to heart

Don't ask me where love starts

It's just been Lately

Lately I watch you while you sleep

I watch the hours you keep

You know you're crazy

I used to analyze my love

Wonder where it came from

But no more

I'd take a walk around the block

But I never stopped

Once I'd hit that door

And it's just been Lately

That I turned and took a second look

Don't need to read any book about love

Lately

Love was a fairytale affair

A coat I'd never wear

In this old cold storm

You caught me leaning in the wind

Helped me round the bend

Like no one else before

And it's just been Lately

That I turned and took one second look

You got me feeling good about love

Lately
