A prisoner cries in the dark of his cell
He knows the price of livin' in hell
And nobody sees, nobody hears
But nothin' falls as hard as a prisoner's tears

I've never been locked behind walls of stone
But I've been a prisoner deep down in my bones
No judge and no jury, but the sentence is clear
And nothin' falls as hard as a prisoner's tears

Counting the days, wonderin' when
This prisoner's heart will finally mend

Counting the days, wonderin' when
This prisoner's heart will finally mend

They say I'm free now, they can't feel my pain
They don't see my shackles, but I'm livin' in chains
Love made the walls, love keeps me here
Nothin' falls as hard as a prisoner's tears
Nothin' falls as hard as a prisoner's tears

A prisoner cries in the dark of his cell
