she arrives every night at the same time to bring a little light to this life of mine the more i pay the longer she will stay until we're done and there is nothing left to say and then it's just me staring blankly at the screen so tired but unable to sleep

i spend my nights just fighting my curfew and end my days still searching for you
and end my days with nothing to relate to now everything seems so remote and so unreal is this a dream or a memory where there's just me

staring blankly at the screen
