Well I never really know why the cold wind blows
And the shades go down between you and I
All I know is that when you go
Something leaves this house and it ain't no home

But I come alive with you inside

I wait for your sweet voice
Guiding me to the right choice
I wait for your sweet voice
Gotta let it go, let it go
To hear your sweet voice

Well you speak when you want and to who you want
And we can't say who you choose
But we try to limit you with our human minds
In a box you go

But when I let it go it's then you show

I love you it's all right
I need you to trust in me
I'll lead you through tonight
