

Paul Klein "The Battle"

Visit "The Battle" on MotoLyrics.com

Life is never fair, man will let you down It's how you face your obstacles, react to things around
And I will not stand still, I'll hold my head up high My heart is big, my passion strong, you cannot stop this drive

I know you though that this battle had been won
But I will reassure you that this battle's just begun

Get out of my way, today is the day that I am breaking
free
From all of your thoughts and all of your words that tried to bring down
me - You should have thought long and you should have thought hard before you tossed me out - 'Cause this old Tulsa boy
who plays the keys
and writes these melodies is gonna rock this town

Let my life speak loud to all of you around

No matter what they say to you, they cannot hold you down Your dreams and goals are bigger than your opposition's words
So brush 'em off and forget them, it's time to go change the world

I know you though that this battle had been won
But I will reassure you that this battle's just begun

Get out of my way, today is the day that I am breaking
free
From all of your thoughts and all of your words that
tried to bring down
me - You should have thought long and you should
have thought hard
before you tossed me out - 'Cause this old Tulsa boy
who plays the keys
and writes these melodies is gonna rock this town

