Terry's exitable, he's always been the same,
Never too smart at school always took the blame
But she was there waiting for him
Whenever he went away and
Terry's inside again, Terry's inside again
And it's torn her apart again.
She was in love with him since long before leaving school
To work in a factory and follow the family rules,
Though he never looked for trouble
Somehow it always came
Terry's inside again, Terry's inside again
And it's torn her apart again.
Follow that winding road to where it leads
And if it leads you home you won't have to be alone.
Come monday afternoon down at the factory,
They're asking questions now, "hey have you seen Marie?"
While there in their small apartment
She's lying beside the bed and
Terry's inside again, Terry's inside again
And it's torn her apart again.
