

Paulson

"Generosity Pt. II"

Visit "Generosity Pt. II" on MotoLyrics.com

There lived a boy with nothing;
except a girl on his arm and family and an otherwise empty apartment on Jerome --
The benefits of reap what you sow.
You would think that everyday was tough,
but this gentleman's days were filled with love.
That wasn't enough. He moved up, and now he can't stop.
It changes everything, you're poor it seems.
I don't need that now.
Just remember when the important thing was love.
Happiness lies inside (that's what they tell you).
But all that you find is blinding, so you remain in your mansion, all alone.
But all that you own can't keep you warm.
I lived through the feeling of too much.
It's alright but living never stops on a happiness
treadmill.
Look at someone, with more than you own.
It changes everything...

Visit Paulson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.