"Nightfall"

Lately the tension's rising;
this love is not ok
Girl, honestly, I think we're both to blame
What if I let you write this?
What if you had your way?
You'd probably sell me out, I'd hear you say:

"He isn't trustworthy.
He thinks he's always right.
He points out everything that I do wrong.
He doesn't know how to apologize."

And I saw the night fall on you, limb by limb

If I'm to understand you
If I am to relate,
I'll listen to you and commiserate
These are the questions' answers,
this is my life on tape:
my thoughts get magnified through time and space

I know this anger will turn into deep regret
I tell me over and over but I don't seem to be able to stop this time
