I think I'll take my foolish heart, my friend, and head right for the door

There'll be a better world waitin' if I do 'Cause I know I've been down this road a time or two before

The only time I let my heart turn to you

Now, I won't be blue with dreams that won't come true
I'll take my heart, head right for the door

Still somethin' deep inside keeps tellin' me to make the sacrifice

And askin' me to walk the extra mile I've walked it now too many times with freedom for the price

Too many times to fight back tears behind my smiles

Now, I won't be blue with dreams that won't come true
I'll take my heart, head right for the door

I know I must seem quite unkind to wander off tonight
And leave the moon up above to hold your gaze It's only that my foolish heart is bound with foolish pride

Maybe some day I'll see the sunshine on your face

Now I won't be blue with dreams that won't come true
I'll take my heart, head right for the door
I'll take my heart, head right for the door
