(Verse 1)

She fooled all of her friends,
Into thinking she's so strong,
But she still sleeps with the light on,
And she acts like it's all right on,
As she smiles again
And her mother lies there sick with cancer,
And her friends don't understand her,
She's a question without answers,
Who feels like falling apart

(Pre-Chorus)

She knows, she's so much more than worthless,
But she needs to find her purpose,
She wonders what she, did to deserve this and...

(Chorus)

She's calling out to You,
This is a call; this is a call out,
'Cause everytime I fall down,
I reach out to you
And I'm losing all control now,
And my hazard signs are all out,
I'm asking you, to show me what this life, is all about

(Verse 2)

And he tells everyone a story,
Because he thinks his life is boring,
And he fights, so you won't ignore him,
Because that's his biggest fear
And he cries, but you'll rarely see him do it,
And he loves, but he's scared to use it,
So he hides behind the music,
Cause he likes it that way

(Pre-Chorus)

And he knows, he's so much more than worthless,
He needs to find the surface,
'Cause he's, starting to get nervous

(Chorus)

He's calling out to You,
This is a call, this is a call out,
Everytime I fall down,
I reach out to you
And I'm losing all control now,
And my hazard signs are all out,
I'm asking you, to show me what this life, is all about.

(Bridge)

Have you ever felt this way before?
'Cause I don't want to hide here anymore,
Take me to a place where nothing's wrong, and,
Thanks for coming, shut the door.
And they say someone out there sees us,
Well if you're real then save me Jesus,
'Cause I've been this way, for far too long,
I wasn't meant, to feel alone

(Chorus)

Now I'm calling out to You,
This is a call, this is a call out,
'Cause everytime I fall down,
I reach out to you
And I'm losing all control now,
And my hazard signs are all out,
I'm asking you, to show me what this life, is all about show me what this life, is all about [2x]
