"Tin Man's Throne"

Father time fell I'll to night
Fight the war with the windows tight
And my tin throne, it's blown into kingdom come
Now I need you here so I can I move my bones

For all the horror, for all the stains
All of over the walls
All of over my brains

Father time fell into night
The fire waters is burning all too bright
But she knows that and knows the path
The roads I run have drilled a hole in the world

The television paints a tunneled picture
So pile on the bend as the walls grow thicker

And carry on the end

Father time is shivering gold
Searching the hills for sex and gold
I ran my body straight out my soul
It hurts so bad I sank into her

And I got lost in the weight of one

Father time took off tonight
Left mother nature to grow and die
The rain machines now rain in fire
I sold all my water just to stay alive

And I am getting so so tired
And I am feeling soooooo
