Mr. Lorry:

I come to dig a man out
I come to dig a man out
Seventeen years
Buried alive
And I must dig him out.
I hope he cares to be recalled to life--

Dr. Manette:

I cannot say for sure.

Mr. Lorry:

The shadows of the night
Are quickly closing in;
I can hear a muffled cry come from within.
And will he know I've come?
Will he want to be saved,
When I come to dig someone out of the grave?
--Buried how long?

Dr. Manette:

Almost eighteen years.

Mr. Lorry:

You had abandoned any hope?

Dr. Manette:

Long ago!

Mr. Lorry:

You know that you're recalled to life.

Dr. Manette:

They tell me so.

Mr. Lorry:

I pray to God you care to live!

Dr. Manette:

I just don't know...

Mr. Lorry:

The night shadows, the night shadows
Call to me
Set him free
From the grave, to the light

Can I save him from the night?
The night shadows call to me.
I hope you care to be recalled to life...

Dr. Manette:
I cannot say
I hope it's true.
Will I one day thank God for you?
