In the moment a tree takes
To decide which way to fall, I got you

I noticed the pain in your eyes
See, the illness has now reached your eyes
And I will have to employ
All of my powers
And the artificial tide

With these hands on your forehead
With these very special hands
I let that inner glow of yours expand

Cast your sense aside, dear
You will have time to reason later

I noticed the pain in your eyes
See the illness has now reached your eyes
And I will have to employ
All of my powers
With an artificial tide

From confusion in your small head
Back to how it all once was
And with this woman's tears I wash my hands

And I'll give you
(More than you would know)
Just by watching me
(More than you would know)
You're blind but you will see
(More than you would know)
Just how to move on when your life is a drag

No, she isn't pale, it's just a trick of the light

Finally summon yourself, that is
Through me you will realise
All those dreams that I've buried inside
All those dreams that I've buried inside
Again I'll have to employ

All of my powers
And the artificial tide

Now if you could
Just lie down and let me
Give this warm and helping hand
And I don't know why, but she complied

And I'll give you
(Just by watching me
(More than you would know)
You're blind but you will see
(More than you would know)
Just how to move on when your life is a drag
No, she isn't pale, it's just a trick of the light

When she called out, I was there (x3)
