It's all about a rainstorm
When I forget to give my reply
It's all about infidelity
When I smile and shut my mouth
And kiss his feet

He sits there right in front of me
While he eats his forgotten meat
Sarcasm is dripping of the walls
His patronizing vocabulary
Is plugged in, at repeat
He thinks I'm naked
I'm just bare
Except for my needs

Have you seen the writing on the wall
When I forgot to tell you my name
Have you seen Clockwork Orange
Did you know that my heart couldn't take it?
Have you seen the writing on the wall
When I forgot to tell you my name
It's all about priorities...

Suddenly she takes my hand
As a tear rolls down her cheek
Her sorry life is dripping at my feet
And I'm waiting for the man to come
I'm waiting for that masterpiece
About making dinner and what is cooking
Stayd underneath

Have you seen the writing on the wall
When I forgot to tell you my name
Have you seen Clockwork Orange
Did you know that my heart couldn't take it?
Have you seen the writing on the wall
When I forgot to tell you my name
It's all about priorities...
It's all about you and me...
Yeah
Ooh

Out of nothing he shakes his head
As he steals my question to reduce
Our dialogue into his monologue
And he does not care to notice
That his repetitions are my grief
It's like my dear friends
He does not know what I need...
