Verse 1

This is my home, I call this tragedy my own
I am nothing else, I am nothing else
This is my home, I call this tragedy my own
I am nothing else, I am nothing else
I am so lost and don't even know what I'm looking for I've been reaching out, I've been reaching out

Chorus

My heart might believe it, if my eyes would stay open
Just long enough to catch a glimpse
Of this life I've been missing, they say it's a great one
Full of peace and promises

Verse 2

Is there more to this world than what meets the eye
Because sight only reaches so far
When I look ahead, after my death
Do I know where I'll be when I'm gone?
My eternity tears like the life in the air
Fear takes over
Was I made for this, alive and then dead
It's all over, oh it's not over

Break

Screams of uncertainty echo endlessly
Fear haunts all who gather in this place of misery
Affliction and torture never end
Separated forever from the only truth and light remaining
No avoidance, no strength of man able to overcome
Abandoned, Alone, Always

Verse 3

This death that I speak of is what we deserve
For all have fallen short of the glory of God
But He loves us so much He gave us His Son
To die on a cross so we may be saved by His blood

This death that I speak of is what we deserve
For all have fallen short of the glory of God
But He loves us so much He gave us His Son

To die on a cross so we may be saved by His blood, by His blood

Chorus 2

I was dead, then came Christ, I'm alive x2
