Knocked Down

One Hundred Million Souls are joined together.
All hope for something better.
And daring to just ask the question.
"What is all this worth?"
Because the answers have all lost their meaning.
They got us all believing.
We really have a future?
And who will get there first?

Knocked down, stumble then you fall
Stay down, find some use for it all
No way, walk before you crawl
When will you fall?

So many hopeless lives have been forgotten,
Defeated once too often.
Just hoping to find resolution
Held down by a greater force.
In the search we find no solutions
And dream of revolutions.
But wake to find we're part of the problem.
So tell me what is worse?

Knocked down, stumble then you fall
Stay down, find some use for it all
No way, walk before you crawl
When will you fall?
When will you fall?
*When will you fall?

Knocked down, stumble then you fall
stay down, find some use for it all
No way, walk before you crawl

Knocked down, stumble then you fall
Stay down, find some use for it all
No way, walk before you crawl

Knocked down
Stay down

Knocked down
Sit down

When will you fall?
When will you fall?
When will you fall?
When will you fall?
